

NAVY PACT SECRECY ALMOST CAUSE WAR, ASSERTS McKELLAR

FRANCE AND ITALY
CRISIS

Tennessee Senator Cites Lack of Written Records of the London Conference

Washington, July 16.—Senator McKellar told the Senate today that France and Italy had been brought to the verge of war, by secrecy, had mood and jealousy, and regulations of the London naval treaty.

McKellar's attack was expected to be followed by others from opponents of the pact. His supporters have retorted more than a dozen times in 15 more than a dozen times.

NO PRINTED RECORDS

The Tennessee Democrat cited Franco-Italian relations after protesting that no printed record of the London negotiations was available, although records of the Washington and Geneva conferences were printed in book form soon after the 1922 and 1927 pacts.

"That the reason why the treaty is not a real peace treaty," he said, "is that the reason why it is a sham and why only three powers signed it. That's the reason we almost brought on a war between France and Italy."

Senator Reed, one of the treaty's framers, informed McKellar that the secretary of the London conference kept records of the negotiations, which, undoubtedly, were in the State Department files.

Senator Johnson, a treaty opponent, said the State Department was printing a volume embodying its own views on the pact. The points of this book, he added, have been turned over to one admiral who was friendly to the plan adopted by the American delegation.

"They are secretly guarded by him and will be delivered to the Senate after action on this treaty is taken," Johnson said.

McKellar called the Washington naval treaty of 1922 the greatest naval victory for Great Britain in all her history. Asked by Senator Shreve whether he would have voted against the pact, Shreve told him that he would have voted against the pact.

Shreve told him that he would have voted against the pact. Shreve told him that he would have voted against the pact. Shreve told him that he would have voted against the pact.

"Has the Senate ever suspected that?" demanded Shreve. "Yes," replied McKellar. "I have spoken time and again against that treaty."

That National and counsel for that bank, announced following the stockholders' meeting today.

Stockholders of the Atlantic National also today approved an increase in its capital stock from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, in connection with the merger. Par value is $25.

The shares of Beacon Trust stock, par $20, will be exchanged for one of Atlantic National. There are 150,000 shares of the former outstanding.

Fliers Pay Honor to Dead Mechanic

As impressive military services were conducted today over the ashes of Frank Mary, Boston airport mechanic, at Waterman's chapel, Commonwealth ave., Pierre Pinell, brother-in-law of the deceased, broke down and had to be carried by aviator friends of the flier. Mary lost his life when he fell from a speedboat in the harbor July 1. The ashes will be sent to Lyons, France.

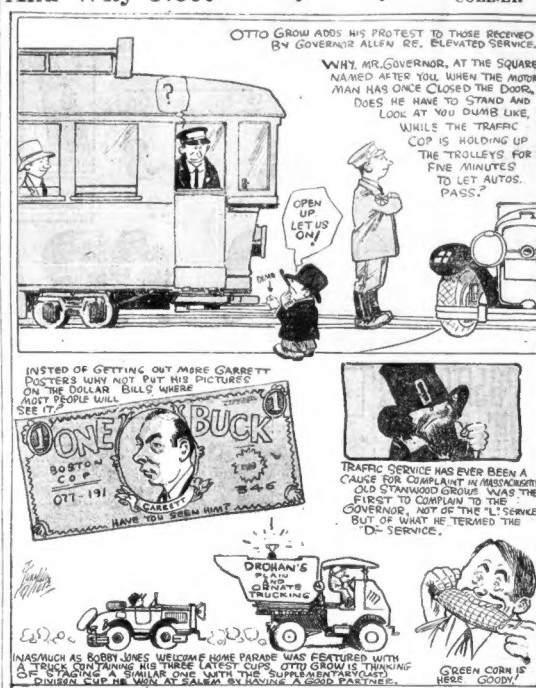

Commander Noah Hebert of Gardner Post, A. I., of which Mary was a member, and State Adjutant Daniel Haverly, conducted the services. Bugler William J. Sayole sounded taps. Russell Boardman read a delegation of airmen and Col. Seth Hayward, M. N. G., under whom Mary served overseas, was present.

7 PULLED FROM WATER IN CRASH

Glocester, July 16.—Seven persons were rescued from drowning shortly after midnight when a touring car, after colliding with another machine at Groves Cove, crashed through a guard rail and dropped into 20 feet of water in Ipswich Bay between Riverside and Annisquam.

The seven were rescued by summer residents, police and passing boats. The following were taken to Adams Gilbert hospital in the police ambulance.

PERKINS, DONALD, 39 years old, Tremont st., Boston, driver, injuries to head and face.

THOMPSON, ARCHIE, eight years old, of Main st., Gloucester, cut on forehead.

THOMPSON, MISS FLORENCE, 13 years old, of Main st., Gloucester, hysterical from shock.

COFFEY, MISS SADIE, 22 years old, of Main st., Gloucester, injuries to head.

SMITH, MELVIN, Babson ct., Gloucester, possible concussion.

WHITE, JOHN, 29 years old, of Chestnut st., Gloucester, immersion and shock.

CHITAGO, July 16 (AP).—Col. R. M. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune and brother-in-law of Ruth Hanna McCormick, told the Senate campaign today he had given $15,000 to support her senatorial campaign.

Of this amount, only $200 had been previously included in the expenditure of $37,000 so far accounted for as her campaign expenses.

McCormick said this sum included a check for $10,000 which was sent to Mrs. McCormick April 1, 1928, a week before the primary election. He said Mrs. McCormick informed him that she arrived too late or was in the campaign, but the money had not been returned to him.

DEPOSITORS IN
'RUN' ON BANK

According to officials, there is a surplus of about $200,000 and securities of more than $1,000,000 in value.

Simoni's assets, and bank officials believe that he has not profited one cent from his illegal dealings. Five years ago a friend said him to allow an overdraw of $6000; the bookkeeper said in his confession. The request was made on a Saturday, and the men promised to make good on the following Monday.

Simoni, without asking the advice of or informing bank officials, allowed the overdraw. On Monday it was not made good, he said, but worse, the man went back again and again and forced Simoni to allow other overdraws until the defalcations had reached a staggering proportion.

At the end of 1925, Simoni's friend died, leaving the bank's accounts $24,000 short.

'GIVES 'EM HELL'
SAYS MABEL
OF HOOVER

Prohibition Will Succeed and Industry Recover, Asserts Mrs. Willibrand

Denver, July 16 (AP).—Confidence in cementing of international relations, industrial stability of the United States and ultimate complete enforcement of the national prohibition laws was expressed in an address prepared for delivery here today by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willibrand, former assistant U. S. Attorney-General, before the 14th annual convention of Lions Clubs.

"This period," she said, "will come to be known as one of great spiritual acceleration; one marked by the influence of intangible forces in thought, industry, business management and, most of all, in leadership and decision of national policies. . . . A few years hence a superabundance of business development and national growth and international quietude will appear, greater and more permanent than ever before."

MAD RAGE FOR WEALTH
"For the past eight years every man has been for money, power, such as motor cars, the evidence of wealth. We went to extremes to get quickly what we had previously done without, like liquor, luxury, pleasure."

Recounting accomplishments of the Hoover administration, Mrs. Willibrand observed: "This last winter has been a heroic political time. The usual salaried, crooked manufacturers and editorial carpers have had no tiring."

But the President has not permitted himself to be deflected from either the methods which are peculiarly his own or the aims he believes to be right."

Mrs. Hoover, she added, cannot perform, because he is too busy. "He avoids a fight as long as possible," she said, "but when it becomes the only alternative he gives 'em hell'."

At the prohibition, Mrs. Willibrand said her faith had been "stretched thin on some occasions when I have observed the amazing way in which the President has been able to handle the situation."

The bank was closed March 28 after a run induced by defalcations amounting to $25,000 on the part of Harold B. Newcomb, then manager of the savings department. Newcomb is now serving an eight- to 10-year sentence in state prison.

Frog Entombed Two Years Still Alive

San Diego, Calif., July 16 (AP).—Workmen breaking up a concrete wall near here reported today they found a live frog imbedded in the hardened mass of cement which was laid two years ago.

The frog hopped away without aid, they said. Its body was bumpy with translucent but otherwise, the finders said, the frog was normal.

Northampton, July 16 (AP).—State Bank Commissioner Roy Hovey, in possession of the closed Hampshire Trust Co., today was authorized by Supreme court to pay a dividend of 60 per cent on claims against the savings department, proved and allowed up to and including July 25. Payment will be made July 26.

Claims against the savings department thus far proved total $1,577,047. Cash on hand totals $381,419 and the dividend will amount to $600,728. The liquidating officers hope to pay a dividend on deposits in the commercial department in September.

The bank was closed March 28 after a run induced by defalcations amounting to $25,000 on the part of Harold B. Newcomb, then manager of the savings department. Newcomb is now serving an eight- to 10-year sentence in state prison.

Commissioner Wood Tells of Effort to Overturn the Government

New York, July 16 (AP).—Communists were charged today in testimony before the special House investigating committee with fomenting strikes as one means of overthrowing the government.

The witness was Charles G. Wood, commissioner of conciliation in the Labor Department at Washington.

The witness declared Communists had centered their activities at Pasadena, N. C. He said they instituted strikes and then made every effort to prevent settlement of disputes over wages, working conditions and hours.

WORKERS INTIMIDATED
Workers in textile mills, Pasadena, as well as in other places, were charged with being intimidated and threatened by Communist leadership were after employment, he said.

Commissioner Wood said Alfred Weisbord of Brooklyn, a graduate of New York University and of the Harvard law school, and conducted strikes in 1926 as the Pasaden textile mill, with Alfred Wagonette, had accused the sympathy of people who had raised between $500,000 and $600,000 with which to carry on the strikes, the witness said.

QUIT TOWN AFTER STRIKE
In describing the textile strike in New Bedford in 1928, Wood said a local organization initiated the walkout and within a week Communist leaders, including Fred Bell, Albert Weisbord and Jack Robinson, had come to New Bedford and within four weeks had secured 10,000 members of the Communist party from the 30,000 persons involved in the strike. At the end of the strike, he said, the Communists left town.

There was $20,000 worth of goods and jewelry in the room when John B. Batechelor, 22, was found by his mother and discovered the man, one of whom he helped to capture.

Divorce and Wedding
Some Week for Star
Hollywood, July 16.—The film colony received the surprise of the year when word came from New York that Jane Winston is to be married tomorrow to Maurice Gumbel, wealthy broker. No one had an inkling that Miss Winston even existed, a separate attempt to divorce Charles Kroger.

Her divorce was granted Monday. The New York permit immediate remarriage without the intermediary decree that makes it necessary to wait a year before either party can marry in California.

She has been living in New York for six months. When she returned to Hollywood her husband during the Easter season she denied she had even thought of a separate attempt to divorce Charles Kroger.

DOOM DRINKING
IN CONGRESS

Washington, July 16 (INS)—A summer campaign for a new congressional act of office, pledging members to personal obedience of the Eighteenth Amendment, is under way today by Representative U. S. Stone (R.) of Oklahoma.

Petitions for enactment of the Stone bill are being circulated by many local branches of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and ardent drys in many sections have demanded their congressmen to support it.

Like the movement started by Senator Sheppard (D.) of Texas to make the buyer of liquor equally guilty with the seller, the Stone campaign is getting under way slowly.

Announcing his plan Stone said: "The present oath was adopted before the Eighteenth Amendment became a part of the Constitution. Those who have taken the oath in respect for the Constitution and practically no respect for the Eighteenth Amendment, do not feel bound by the present oath."

"The oath is so general that it is not strictly observed and especially with reference to additional amendments which are now a part of the Constitution."

Stone says his eyes were opened when he came to Washington.

Chicago Gunman Escapes Bullets

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—An attempt was made early today to assassinate Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, one of the crime commission's listed "public enemies." The gunman's aim was so poor, however, that O'Donnell, asleep in his home, was not even awakened.

BOSTON-SALEM
CARS ON AGAIN

After being discontinued nearly 10 years the Salem-Boston trolley line of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway will resume service Friday. It was announced today by the company.

The route, discontinued Sept. 6, 1920, is from Town House St. Salem to Scollay sq., Boston, through West Lynn. The tracks have been used for the last decade only for the Lynn-Salem line and local operation in the Lynn division.

Cars will be operated hourly on week days from 6:15 a. m. to 6:15 p. m. from Salem, and from 9:15 a. m. to 7:15 p. m. from Boston, and on Sundays from 9:15 a. m. to 7:15 p. m. from Salem and from 10:15 a. m. to 8:15 p. m. from Boston.

Heavy Damage in Storms in Portugal

Veloso Do Alentejo, Portugal, July 16 (AP)—Hailstones of unusual size fell here last night and wrecked the olive crop and hundreds of thousands of fruit trees. Torrential rains inundated large areas of wheat lands. The material damage is estimated at several hundred thousand dooyars. Two persons were struck by lightning.

Tennis Stars to Play at Essex

North Shore Folk Plan Many Entertainments During Tournament

THE LADIES' ANNUAL invitation tournament at the Essex County Club of Manchester will take place the week of July 21. California is sending many aspirants and hopes are high that Helen Wills Moody may be secured for the interesting event. Helen Jacobs' presence is assured, as her entry has been sent in.

MANY LUNCHEONS AND dinners will be given in honor of the visiting players, among them Mrs. Wallace Goodrich's of West Manchester, who will entertain two of the players. Mrs. Henry Endicott of Beverly Farms will entertain Miss Crookshank and Miss Burkhardt. Miss Marjorie Morrill of Smith's Point, Manchester, will be hostess for Mrs. Ary J. Lamme and Mrs. Clifford Lockhorn. Mrs. L. A. Harper, Mrs. J. L. Bremer, Mrs. J. D. Conner and Mrs. P. H. Godfrey will be the guests of Mrs. William Endicott of Woburn.

AMONG THE WESTERN players who are newcomers to the East are Miss Wital, a young girl who has been several times the best player in California. Miss Marjorie Gladman and Miss Edith Cross. Miss Ruth Bailey, Missouri's champion woman player, is also coming to play. Of course, Miss Sara Daffrey is expected and from the good news from Wimbledon, the best playing seen on the Shore in many years is expected. Other players include Miss Clara Louise Zuker, Miss Katherine Whitmore, Miss Anna Page, Mrs. Robert Gifford, Miss Virginia Hillier, Miss Marjorie Sachs, Miss Dorothy Andrews, Miss E. Secars, and Miss Edith Sigourney.

Recital and Fair on Program for Newport Leaders

TWO INTERESTING NEWPORT events scheduled for the near future is the recital by Mr. Miksa Mersan, Hungarian pianist, at the Art Association July 21, under the patronage of Count and Countess Serebreny, and the fair that will be given at Oakland Farm under the direction of Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt to raise money for the children's welfare fund in Newport County.

A SALE FOR THE DISABLED Excelsior's Exchange, Thursday, July 24, will be held at the home of Mrs. James M. Hunsnewell of Grey Rock, Marshfield Neck. Mrs. Hunsnewell will be assisted by Mrs. Guy Lowell, Mrs. Henry A. Morse, Mrs. Henry Parkman, Jr., and Mrs. Frank Macquesten.

THE LADIES' COMMITTEE of the Britton Coffee Shop announces that Miss Mattie Empson will be in charge of the shop for the coming season. Mrs. Carl Dreyfus is chairman of the shop committee and assisting her are Mrs. Charles L. Scudler, Mrs. C. Alexander Nowell, Mrs. David J. Evans and Mrs. Henry M. Channing. The Britton Coffee Shop is operated for the benefit of the Household Nursing Association.

Clubwomen Will Enlarge Public Health Program

By NANCY BREWSTER

Better organized and comprehensive maternal and infant hygiene work is the recommendation of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to the Massachusetts State Federation.

Recording itself in favor of further development and strengthening of local, state and county health bureaus, the General Federation is urging all of its affiliated clubs throughout the country to take up the project and include maternal and infant hygiene activities in its programs.

Entered at the biennial, Mrs. John F. Bippel personally requested the representatives of the individual states to follow the resolution and adopt its policies in state work.

In this state, the clubwomen worked hard for maternal and infant hygiene, and now with the personal request of the president of the parent organization even greater efforts will be expended in achieving more satisfactory results.

There is widespread interest in the work, and although the General Federation has already endorsed the work of the United States Public Health Service, it is its aim to send a half million clubwomen to co-operate with all health agencies, as well as the United States Children's Bureau and develop even further the necessary hygiene that would reduce the infant death rate.

The public health department of the State Federation of Women's Clubs has achieved considerable success in past years under the leadership of Dr. Anna C. Palmer.

This year a new chairman is to be appointed by Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, state president, who will be instructed to embody the principles of the General Federation resolution.

Republican Women Make Inspection of Girls' Reformatory

Fifty members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, under the leadership of Mrs. Frederick E. Judd, director of the political department of the club, left for the girls' reformatory, today to visit Sherborn Reformatory.

They will be the guests of Mrs. Jesse Hodder, who will personally conduct them through the institution. They also will be entertained at luncheon.

One of the summer series of tours of institutions, it is in keeping with the political policy of the club, aiming to acquaint its members with the successful improvements of the Republican administration.

Another new district director is Mrs. Harold P. Johnson, who succeeds Mrs. Philip H. Tirrell of Reading as motivating force of the eighth district of the State Federation. Mrs. Johnson is a former secretary and president of the Woburn Woman's Club and a member of the President's Club.

Many interests occupy her, among them the Girl Scouts of Woburn, whom she has served as commissioner. Her husband was twice mayor of Woburn.

The activities of nineteen clubs will engage her efforts and industry and clubwomen of Malden, Medford, Melrose Highlands, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, West Medford, Woburn, Winchester and Wilbraham will look to her for State Federation leadership.

Play Clothes Cool and Youthful

By ANN ARDEN

(ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

Model from Jordan Marsh Co.

SUMMER PLAY CLOTHES ARE COOL AND YOUTHFULLY BRIGHT. THE GOOD old blue denim overall, long a sturdy standby for summer play days, has yielded place to a festive group of rompers and overalls. These new togs are not only colorful but distinctly practical. They are washable, cool, and sufficiently open about their design to admit any amount of health-giving violet rays.

ALL OUR best beaches and backyards are populated with just such busy groups as the following—there is a short-legged overall in a sunny print percale. The straps, which hold up the bib front with modesty, cross in the back and anchor to the brief pants.

ONE CAN become all tied up in a polka dotted romper of broadcloth. The shoulders, pants leg and belt, all tie in bewitching fabric bows. A sun bonnet and romper, abbreviated in the French manner, check their smartness in gingham. A round Buster collar neckline keeps one's offering a fragile white. The coquettish bow on the bonnet is part of the fun of being feminine! The loudy striped overalls and matching hat are a pre-cocked legiate version for the very young. The back is shockingly bare, we regret to say!

SHORTS OR Longies—It makes no difference—just as they come in the smart category of trousers. Girls have dropped bloomers and taken up shorts.

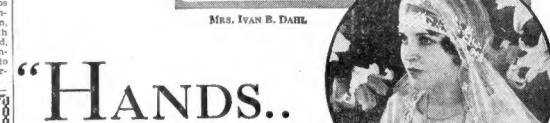

THE PLAY or exercise suit pictured is most attractive, in addition to being decidedly practical. It is of yellow linen, the blouse tucked, with capacious patch pocket, short sleeves, and turn-over collar. The shorts have roomy pleats in front, and belt of the material. A brown silk tie is run through narrow strap of the linen. Yellow striped socks are worn, brown sneakers and a brown beret.

ANN ARDEN will answer questions concerning clothes, social customs or fashions generally. Address your questions to the Boston Evening American, or to the Boston Sunday Advertiser, or to Station WHDH.

“HANDS.. lovely as on our Wedding Day thanks to Lux in the dishpan”

HANDS lovely as a bride's! Everywhere... east, west, north, south... young wives exclaim over a new-found secret... a way to cherish the beauty of their hands in spite of home-making cares.

"Using Lux for dishes and other soap and water tasks has kept my hands as dainty as when I was married, 6 years ago," writes Mrs. Ivan B. Dahl.

Many other wives, like Mrs. Charles Howard Jacobie, Mrs. Carolyn Pierson, also give Lux the credit for hands lovely as a girl's, after years of housekeeping!

Among hundreds and hundreds of young wives interviewed in 11 big cities, 96 out of every 100 are using Lux!

Wisely, they follow the advice of beauty experts, who say—"A wife who uses Lux in housework has hands lovely as the hands of a woman who has maids."

So many soaps contain harmful alkali which dries up the beautiful oils of the skin, leaving it roughened and wrinkled. Lux never dries these fine oils. The soothing, bland Lux suds give your hands hours of marvelously gentle, comforting beauty care!

Yet Lux for all your dishes costs less than 1¢ a day!

Commend Cop for Halting Runaway

Patrolman John F. Eagen of the Duolier st. station was commended in general orders issued by Commissioner Hoffman last night for stopping a runaway horse, which became frightened at a firecracker and dashed wildly through the streets, endangering the safety of scores of people on the night before the Fourth.

At the corner of Maywood and Warren sts., Roxbury, Officer Eagen ran from the sidewalk, seized the bridle and was dragged a distance of 300 feet before he was able to stop the animal.

Airport Lease Up to Governor Today

The final obstacle in the path of Boston Municipal Airport extension is expected to be removed today, when the lease for additional land authorized by the Legislature to the city will go before the governor and his council for signature.

The city will spend $400,000 on further airport construction this summer. It was stated by William P. Long, Boston park commissioner, of which $150,000 is available now.

Avarice Makes Stock Swindling Easy

By EX-SWINDLER

Have you ever been stung by a "glimmer"?

A glimmer is a peddler of eye-glances who tours the country round looking for victims. That sounds like a long way to Wall St., or the office of the stock racketeer, but hear about the short cut.

When a glimmer finds a man with weak eyes and a strong back roll, the possession of a real roll is all that he is just a step above life's highway from total blindness.

He is planted in his seat.

If the fear grips works, the victim is told about the great eye professor from Vienna, who happens, luckily, to be in the nearest newspaper to the victim at that very time.

PROFESSOR'S ADVICE

The professor calls, in expensive language, with sick hat and all the trappings. He examines the victim's eyes and uses the cost of the operation and treatment to find out how much the victim has in cash, how much he can raise. If the victim's assets are in cash, the "Professor" tells him the cost of the operation and treatment will be a few thousand more than he has. He suggests that the victim consult a good broker and invest in stocks that promise a quick return.

BOSS SAFFER'S METHODS

It was a "Boss Glimmer"—Sam Saffer, of Chicago—who put this "glimmer" system on a paying basis, but the system organized for proper "re-loading" with worthless wall-paper stocks.

World War Saffer sent whole trainloads of "glimmers" INTO THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICTS. From their reports of wealth here and there he organized the "re-loading" of the "glimmer" and sold stocks in everything from gold in "timber" to diamond orchards on Broadway.

The "re-loader" doesn't care what they tell him as long as he sells the sucker stock.

They'll tell the prospective victim that some little company is to be merged with a nationally known company in the same line of business, and that when the merger is announced, the stock will rise. The victim is bound to soar to new levels.

STOCK IS WORTHLESS

They tell the victim this and more. Dazzled by prospect of fabulous wealth he usually succumbs to the careful "build-up" in his case. The "bid" is a development of the old system worked by the glimmers.

The victim is sold a block of some worthless stock on the theory that it is due for a tremendous rise. Then the victim is called on the telephone or visited by a court of the man who sold the stock originally. He is offered several times what he paid for the stock originally. If the victim is ready to sell at once the racketeer announces that he wants the stock, a number of shares, usually double the amount held by the sucker.

The sucker, invariably, gets in touch with the man who sold him that first batch of stock. The salesman does not have to sell, the sucker sells himself.

The man who wants to buy has offered a sufficiently high price, the sucker will buy from the original salesman at an increased price. And, of course, the prospective buyer fails to keep the appointment to come back.

THE PATENT BAIT

The "pet" is an elaboration of the bid. A stockholder of a defunct company is approached by the salesman who originally sold him the shares he holds and told that certain patents or claims that the company holds are extremely valuable and sought for by a clever group.

A day or two pass by and the mooch is called by two or three brokerage houses—the same man calls under different names—and he is asked to sell the shares he holds. He refuses, of course; the price is too low and besides he would not sell.

"BROKER'S" TACTICS

If the "broker" said the stock was worthless (and it was), the mooch, who was wiled up by the stock salesman, counters with "it is as valuable as you say, why do YOU want to buy it?"

Then, the "buyer" who poses as agent of the "mysterious group" calls on the mooch and makes a handsome offer for certain block—much more than the mooch now holds.

The "buyer" is very careful to make the call preliminary and says he will be back the next day to "talk turkey." This is to enable the mooch to get in touch with "his friends" and make the sale.

The salesman is phoned and he agrees to go into partnership with the mooch, get the additional shares—he knows where—and make this tremendous profit. The salesman also cautions the mooch to hold out for as high a price as possible.

The following day, the buyer appears with a certified check (phony) for a hundred thousand or a quarter of a million—as the case may be, and asks for the stock, but promises to have it the next day. The "buyer" is very anxious and puts a "perfected" "act." The mooch is convinced.

He gets his "share" of the money, gives it to the stock salesman and gets certificates—in some name or a street certificate—routine and properly endorsed and guaranteed.

When the buyer calls and is shown the stock, he demands that the mooch transfer it to his own name before he accepts it and, on the day the mooch gets the stock transferred, the buyer phones him and says that he got tired of waiting and secured the shares from someone else.

Another favorite method of taking over mooches is the POOL. It is a printed form of contract that makes the signer a party to a rise in the stock market and specifies the amount of profits he will get and when he will get them.

JAIL THREAT USED

The trick is that a Pool is illegal and an illegal contract is not enforceable. The victim is told that having signed the Pool Agreement, he is an accessory to the crime and if he puts the swindler in jail, he will go to jail too.

Tomorrow I will tell you the story of Victor Pate Motors, manufacturers of Motor Cars without a motor—a picture complete in one reel, but picture in itself as to how a racketeer company operates.

Heads of a Milk at brokerage houses were under orders to appear for the stock. Copper Mountain Apex Mines was last offered in April by Mrs. V. F. Fitt, at 70 cents.

J. S.—United States Oil has been abolished since 1924.

B. G.—Middle States Oil went into receivership in 1924. There is no record of any action ever having been taken against Colfax Phillips.

A. V.—Sawed Railway units show April quotations at 13 Shares of common are listed at $3.50.

W. D.—There is no market for Comstock Gold Mining, Inc. Monarch Gold Mines is paying no dividends.

I. G.—There has been no activity here in Allied Investors Securities Corporation. In New Jersey the attorney-general recently ordered an audit of the corporation's books.

H. H.—Urban Motion Pictures went into receivership several years ago.

J. G. H.—Howard Gunder, chairman of the board; Philip Gunder, director; R. A. Randall, secretary, the Bankers' Capital Corporation, and Everett J. Sturges, president of the Bankers' Capital Co., were indicted last January, in New York city, $50,000 being the estimated loss to investors. The Bankers' Capital Corporation of Connecticut, a subsidiary, is in bankruptcy.

Mrs. F. W. C.—Lathier Corporation was sold at auction in December, 1929. It had been made the vehicle of operations by a number of high pressure sales organizations.

K. R.—Sinclair Exploration has been a dead issue for five years.

Other complaints have been received but any action that might have been taken has been nullified by the statute of limitations.

HEAR OTHER COMPLAINTS

Today the Public Utilities Commission is considering several complaints against brokers and salesmen and examining several questionable stocks in which there has been considerable activity in the Boston district.

In the meanwhile, Asst. Atty.-Gen. Louis H. Sawyer, in charge of the investigation into evidence in dealing that a ring of stock swindlers had recently taken more than $100,000 from investors in the Greater Boston area, held a long conference this morning with Atty.-Gen. Warner as to the state's procedure.

It was decided that Mr. Sawyer was to continue in charge of the state-wide inquiry and that when the investigation is completed, the attorney-general's office will co-operate with the various district attorneys in asking grand jury indictments.

William H. Dally, a mechanic of 12 Holden st., Dorchester, made a statement to Mr. Sawyer charging that misrepresentations had been made to induce him to invest $250 in Comstock Gold Mining stocks. From a Boston workman came the story of an investment of $50 in Monarch stock by the same brokers. No dividends have been paid.

The brokers in the mine stock are only the first of a long list of brokers and salesmen who will be called to the State House to explain recent sales. Mr. Sawyer stated. He is also interested in the methods of sales used by the brokers of a merchandising company, who flood the state with stock on promises of huge dividends.

WIDOW TAKES BAIT

Women continue to predominate among the investors complaining to the Boston Evening American of the loss of their money.

One of the women complainants, whose story particularly interested the state authorities, was Mrs. A. widow of Lynn, who sank $500 of which she borrowed $300 from a bank into the stock of a merchandise company which had announced an elaborate "sure fire" expansion plan.

Mrs. A. saw no chance to lose, without her remaining $100 from a savings account, borrowed $300 from a bank and handed it to the salesman. Naturally, she never heard from the mysterious call again.

And suddenly the sale of the stock in which she had invested was stopped by the State. Mrs. A. is still working 10 hours a day at her old job. Mr. Sawyer has opened an investigation into this sale.

STOCK SERIES ANSWERED BY AMERICAN

In this column inquiries made by several correspondents of the Boston American Stock Fraud Bureau are answered.

It is known that sleuths of the golfing world are busy on such slim clues as are available, but nothing tangible has been reported. There have been other stories of reported huge winnings of American bettors on Jones through "Lloyd's" but tangible evidence of this seems equally elusive. Any one of Lloyd's 1900 or so members might have handled the reported deals without the knowledge of the Lloyd's institution.

'Swindle' on Bobby Jones' Golf Amazes London

London, July 16 (AP)—English newspapers today were treating as a first page feature a story from Roanoke, Va., of an alleged swindle in Wales in connection with betting on Bobby Jones and other stars in the British open golf championship. So far it appears as though nobody in Great Britain knows anything concerning the affair, or if they do they are saying nothing about it.

It is known that sleuths of the golfing world are busy on such slim clues as are available, but nothing tangible has been reported. There have been other stories of reported huge winnings of American bettors on Jones through "Lloyd's" but tangible evidence of this seems equally elusive. FORESIGHT—an essential of statesmanship and of good cigarette-making too.

KNOWING WHAT SMOKERS WANT—and giving it to them in fullest measure—that's the sound basis on which Chesterfield's popularity has been built.

GOOD TOBACCOS, accurately blended—cigarettes of uniformly good quality and satisfying taste; no wonder that every day sees more and more smokers changing to this skilful blend of quality tobaccos... for mildness and for better taste.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LUGGOTT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

Fans Often Thrilled as 'Diver' Puts On His Act in Ring

'TANKERS' WILL TAKE HARD PUNCHES TO MAKE THINGS LOOK GOOD TO FANS

By JACK CONWAY

This is the story how K. O. Terror "took it on the chin" as part of the build-up of the coming champion.

Jimmy Chisel secured downtown training quarters for K. O. He wanted the gang to be able to drop in and see how his protegee was getting ready for the "fight of his career."

"K. O. will knock this egg right into his manager's lap," Jimmy told the mob. "My man has had too much experience for that mug. He will make him think it is raining boxing gloves. These youngsters can tag 'em on the chin when they are in there with inexperienced opposition, but no advice is going to stop K. O. He's got too much stuff upstairs in the old think tank. A smart guy is K. O. Grab a little of that shontend dough and you can take a vacation."

And so the build-up for the match goes on. When there is a scarcity of news for the club's publicity agent, Jimmy Chisel sends a few of his stumblers in the gym to work out with K. O. They are ordered to take punches and then breathe to the trainer.

"It will make K. O. look good and will help the advance sale," advises Jimmy. "And you guys will get paid at the rate of a sawbuck for each flop. That's more than you could get taking up parking space in my office."

This line of strategy, in which Jimmy Chisel was an expert, paid new fire into the show.

Things began to open up a little. There were people who figured that K. O. had an outside chance of stopping the coming champion with one of his punches.

Jack Conway Picks 2 More Winners

Jack Conway added two more to his list of winning fluff selections when Ray Bostaine knocked out Ignacio Fernandez and Sammy Fuller outscored Billy Lynch.

Conway's 1930 record follows:

W	L	P.C.
42	6	.875

Everybody would make money. The promoter would get a snug profit, the coming champ would get a big purse, Jimmy Chisel would get $1250, out of which he would give K. O. $500.

"Shows what a couple of smart guys can do," the manager of the coming champ said to Jimmy Chisel.

"Getting down to business," said the big shot. "The best way to end this bout is for K. O. to take a right-hand sock on the chin in the fourth round. Remember, I said on the chin. I don't want anybody going down from an in-fight punch. Let the coming champ smack a right to the button and K. O. can hit the canvas and play dead until counted out. Guess he'll be chilled, anyway, as the kid sure can hit when you leave the gate open for the punch."

"Let the boys punch away until the fourth round. Get some power behind their punches, but no sneaking of a kyo, mind you. Then a barrage of body blows in the fourth, the kid will pull back and suddenly let drive with his right to the button. Explain to K. O. he's got to take the punch. I don't want him to fall in under the blow and then drop to the canvas. Get to make it look good to the public. How I love my public!"

Jimmy Chisel talked things over with K. O. Terror. K. O. nodded his head.

"That $500 looks bigger to me every day," K. O. told Jimmy. "My hands are itching to get hold of that money."

The night of the show arrives. The club is jammed. The fans are eager to see how the coming champion will shape up against K. O. Terror. They have watched the cub smash his way out front in his boxing division, while they can still remember how K. O. Terror howled over the opposition when he was at the peak of his career.

Let punches fly.

The gong sounds. The battle is on. For three rounds the rivals let their punches fly. There is power behind them, but not that finishing snap which causes a kyo.

The bell sounds for the opening of the fourth round. The rivals rush from their corners. They get to close quarters, where they hammer away with hard, driving punches for the body. They disregard the orders of the referee to break. They keep pumping in their punches. By this time the crowd in the ring is an uproar.

"What a fight!" yells one ringleader fanatic. Suddenly the kid pulls away from his veteran rival. K. O.'s arms are still low as he prepares for further body attack. His chin is unprotected.

The kid pulls back his right hand. It breezes. The blow crashes to K. O.'s jaw. The veteran falls forward on his face. His feet lose slightly as if he were trying to get up. The referee starts his count. Meanwhile the crowd is in an uproar over the sensational ending.

"In and out," shouts the referee.

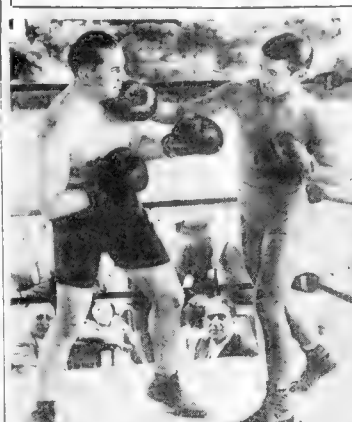

"The coming champion's admirers hop into the ring and carry him to the dressing room in triumph."

A few oldtimers gather around K. O.'s corner and offer him words of consolation as his seconds work over him frantically. Ten minutes later found K. O. back in his dressing room. When he was rubbed and dressed, Jimmy Chisel entered the room. He pulled K. O. into a corner and pressed five new $100 bills into his hand.

"You made it look good," said Jimmy. "I won't have any trouble getting plenty of work for you if you can show as well as that."

"Yeah!" sighed K. O. "This is a rotten way to treat the fans. I needed that $500."

GLAY COURTS TITLE PLAY ON

Kansas City, July 16 (AP)—The "36-hole matches" of tennis—three out of five sets—were to begin today as the 21st annual national clay courts tournament entered third round singles and the second round doubles.

Emmett Parr defending champion from Dayton, O., was faced with a severe test in the midst of Bryan Grant, Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., who became favorite yesterday as he won his second round match with ease after losing the first set at love to Stanley Alquist of

A year ago at Indianapolis Parr won from Grant in the semifinals in five sets, taking the last three after losing two and apparently beaten.

The defending doubles pair, Frederic Mercer of Hattiesburg, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., appeared to be in no danger of elimination at the hands of Earl R. Louis opponents William Martin, Jr., and Charles McMillan.

DEVENS TROOPS HONOR FOOT

Camp Devens, July 15.—As a tribute to Maj. Gen. Alfred F. Foote, commanding officer of the Yankee Division, a special review was held today in camp by the C. M. T. C. Upon entering the C. M. T. C. area today, Gen. Foote was met by a detail of infantrymen and was accorded the customary 13-gun salute.

Accompanying the general was the 14th infantry regiment, the outfit with which Gen. Foote served overseas as major. Student officers had charge of the review which followed.

Preceding the C. M. T. C. review, the 14th put on a special parade in honor of the citizen soldier. This was at request of Col. Frederick G. Knabenshue, regular army camp commander, who expressed himself as particularly impressed at the showing three men made in a parade last week.

The tribute paid Gen. Foote by the C. M. T. C. was a rare one, for although the citizen soldiers and the National Guard have been in camp together each of several years, it was the first time in many years that the head of the guard has been so honored.

Governor's Day was originally set for today, but because of the interruption through yesterday's visit of officers to Boston, has been put over until tomorrow. A special observance feature will be included in the Governor's Day program.

HELD FOR LYNN MAN'S DEATH

Glen Falls, N. Y., July 15 (APB)

John Heyson of Fort Edward was charged with first degree manslaughter today following the fatal shooting here last week of Hugh McKenna, a Lynn, Mass., book salesman.

Heyson surrendered last night to Dist. Atty. Beckwith. He was sought for several days after he had pleaded not guilty and been released on $12,000 bail.

McKenna, on his deathbed, said he did not know who shot him, that he "might have shot himself

RUSH WARSHIPS TO EGYPT

London, July 16 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that two warships have been sent to Egypt.

Alexandria, Egypt, July 16 (AP)—The streets of Alexandria, which swarmed with clashes between police and strikers all day yesterday, were patrolled by soldiers today.

Another small demonstration took place in the Egyptian quarter, but there were no casualties. In yesterday's clash 14 were killed and 121 injured.

This afternoon the city was quiet, but there was an air of tension and nervousness in view of the forthcoming funeral of those who lost their lives in the riots. Many shops were closed as merchants feared looting.

De Valera's Offices Swept by Flames

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 16 (AP)—Offices of the Eanna Pail, Eanna de Valera's Republican party were destroyed by fire last night at midnight. No one was injured and considerable property was lost. The fire was caused by a gas leak in the kitchen.

make cleaning EASIER

Stairways—halls—corners—all are hard places to clean—and because the vacuum cleaner cord is usually too short—many women know no other method but that of the old-fashioned broom and pan. This tiresome stooping method can be avoided! Convenience outlets (wall or floor plugs) are easily installed by your electrician in just these hard-to-clean places. What a difference they make! You clean thoroughly with little effort—because you just plug in your vacuum cleaner wherever you wish, and the work is done in a jiffy!

Have your electrician install these needed outlets now—for you'll find them a great convenience—when cleaning time comes around.

The Green-Eyed Monster

By Herriman

A Servile Senate

The United States Senate has subjected itself to legitimate criticism for its timid assertion or rather its cowardly abandonment of its constitutional rights.

The President is also open to legitimate criticism for his arbitrary assumption of senatorial powers and his autocratic refusal to comply with constitutional provisions.

The Senate in the constitutional convention was created the TREATY-MAKING POWER of the United States.

The President is merely a NEGOTIATOR, an intermediary between the representatives of a foreign state and the senators, who are the direct representatives of our federated states.

It is the President's definite duty to submit to the Senate, which is the actual treaty-making power, all the facts in any way relating to his negotiations, so that the Senate may accept or reject the treaty in the full knowledge of all the facts and circumstances relating to his negotiations.

When the Senate tremblingly and cringingly petitions the President to allow it its constitutional RIGHTS, it shows itself incapable of intelligently understanding or independently exercising its constitutional rights and shows itself unworthy of the high powers which the Constitution reposes in it.

Macaulay spoke of the reptile press which crawled on its belly before power and position.

But today the press is free and the politicians are reptiles. It is they who crawl and cringe and decline to be upright and independent, even when they have the constitutional right to be "the greatest deliberative body in the world."

Our House of Lords becomes a house of lackeys and makes itself the object of ridicule and disrespect.

The Hearst papers have patriotically tried to stand by the Senate in its conflict with the Executive for the maintenance of its constitutional rights and prerogatives.

But how is it possible to stand by a body which will not stand up?

How is it possible to have respect for a body which HAS NO RESPECT FOR ITSELF?

How is it possible to maintain the dignity of a body which insists on prostrating itself in the mud of self-abasement and self-effacement?

How preserve the rights of a body which is so servilely ready to surrender its own rights and also the liberties of the American people?

If the rights of the people and of the states and of the Senate must be maintained, the Hearst papers would remain silent and permit the world's "greatest deliberative body" (God save the mark!) to become the political doormat which it desires to be and, as at present constituted, deserves to be.

Better "EI" Service

Trustees Accomplish Much, But Face New Problems

Governor Allen warns the public trustees that adequate service must be maintained in the Boston Elevated, despite the loss of revenue which everybody hopes is but temporary.

The warning was timely. The Elevated is integral to the life of Boston. The city could not do without it, nor could the Elevated subsist without the good favor and friendly disposition of the riding public.

Any temptation to diminish service should be avoided. The service should be made so efficient and so attractive that the people will realize they cannot afford not to patronize it.

Since the extraordinary growth of our suburbs Boston has become increasingly a city of commuters, and those who work in our mercantile establishments and business offices as well as those who patronize them should be enabled to make their way with the least possible inconvenience. Our city is filled with travelers who come for the historical celebrations. Their comfort in transportation is a consideration which must be reckoned with constantly if the city is to derive the fullest advantage from them.

When we compare the condition of the Elevated today with that of ten years ago, and with its bankrupt finances, dilapidated cars and Tonerville service, we must confess that the trustees have accomplished a surprising improvement. And they must admit that the patience and increased fares of the riders have made this transformation possible.

The trustees are now confronted by a depression in patronage which tests their ingenuity. And their conference with the Governor should have the beneficial effect of increasing their stature in popular sentiment and sympathy, because the conference demonstrated the all-important situation which should never be lost sight of—that the trustees are operating the Elevated in the interest of the public and not of the private corporation as in the days of old.

Under the ancient regime of private management, with its public-badly-damaged policy, a conference in which the Governor of the Commonwealth could spur the operators to better service for the public would have been impossible.

The Parking Problem

No Arbitrary Ruling Will Solve It

Mayor Curley's proposal to reduce the congestion which arises from auto parking was thoughtful. He would prevent parking on the inbound side of the main arteries in the morning, and on the outbound side when the heavy tide of traffic flows out of the city in the late afternoon hours.

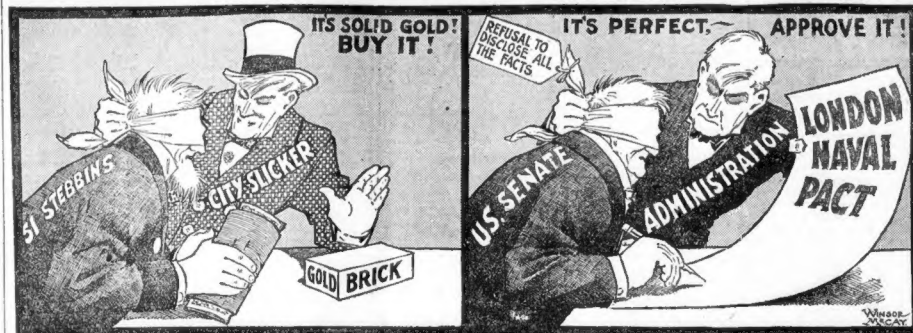

Because of our street conditions, because of our centralized business area and because we are the shopping metropolis of New England our traffic problems will be always with us.

So long as we reduce the area open to parking we must provide other asylums for it.

And since our private garages are pretty well tested to capacity, the city should set aside parking spaces on such of its property as is usable for this purpose. It might well build centrally-located parking garages, for which a small fee should be charged, sufficiently only to compensate the cost of its investment and ordinary expenses. It is a city's business to cater to the convenience of its people.

Any arbitrary barring of automobiles from the shopping area will not solve the problem and would inflict needless hardship upon both the public, for whom the streets were made, and upon business.

IT'S A GREAT GAME—IF IT WORKS

IF SI STEBBINS permitted himself to be blindfolded and then parted with his wallet for a nice shiny gold brick, the people back home would be entitled to do a lot of TALL TALKING, and maybe some TALL ACTING, wouldn't they?

"Durned old fool" probably would be the mildest of the epithets to be hurled Si's way.

Rest assured, they wouldn't let Si get to the city again with a fat wallet WITHOUT A GUARDIAN.

Then what about the United States Senate, "greatest deliberative body in the world," attempting to consider the vitally important London Naval Pact when it is bluntly denied access to ALL the facts surrounding the treaty negotiations?

What will the people back home say to those Senators who, blindfolded, vote for the ratification of this iniquitous treaty? It is a "GOLD BRICK" treaty. Uncle Sam would pay one thousand million dollars and get in return an INFERIOR navy.

Contest Sir Conan's Will

By ARTHUR BAEZ

IF SIR CONAN DOYLE ever wrote a chivalric tale from his new office we would call it "The Case of the Sherlock Holmes Mystery." His last wish, "We're sorry, We started wishing first."

Conan always wanted to be remembered more for his physics papers than for his novels. That's his last wish. We're sorry, We started wishing first.

We would rather read "The Hound of the Baskervilles," "The Speckled Band" and "The Sign of the Four" than see Conan march up Broadway at the head of a shower of ticker tape and ecstasies.

They have carried this psychic

The mysterious is usually a good-looking life guard named Jake and the occult is always a blonde. But Alice can claim to be psychic and block more traffic than a circus parade. And get away with it.

The real test on spiritualism is a rumble seat in the rain. If we can be psychic there, then we consider there may be something to it. But, like an upper berth, a day bed, a divan or an army cot, are just another name for the same old bunk.

We will hear from Sir Conan when Gabriel imitates Rudy Vallee. Conan created a character in Sherlock who was more vitally alive, and sharply delineated than any individual in the Pickwick papers. And when you can get longer distance off the final test than Dickens, then, boy, you have made heaven in one.

THE METHODIST Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals—if any—fills a long-felt need by taking a Dwight Morrow presidential boom, critically.

H. G. Wells on 'The Science of Life'

IN COLLABORATION WITH PROF. JULIAN HUXLEY AND GEORGE P. WELLS

(Continued from Yesterday) ONE OF the most active members of the movement in defense of the rights of colored people might just as well have been a Scandian. He has an unquenchable colored pedigree on both sides, but in the South, where various racial social distinctions are made between the races, he has great difficulty in refusing treatment.

When Alice comes home from Vassar and moons around in the porch hammock everybody in the family is afraid to rattle the dishes in the sink. They know that Alice has gone into one of her trances and will emerge with some valuable information about the mysterious and the occult.

The mysterious is usually a good-looking life guard named Jake and the occult is always a blonde. But Alice can claim to be psychic and block more traffic than a circus parade. And get away with it.

The real test on spiritualism is a rumble seat in the rain. If we can be psychic there, then we consider there may be something to it. But, like an upper berth, a day bed, a divan or an army cot, are just another name for the same old bunk.

We will hear from Sir Conan when Gabriel imitates Rudy Vallee. Conan created a character in Sherlock who was more vitally alive, and sharply delineated than any individual in the Pickwick papers. And when you can get longer distance off the final test than Dickens, then, boy, you have made heaven in one.

THE METHODIST Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals—if any—fills a long-felt need by taking a Dwight Morrow presidential boom, critically.

McIntyre Abroad

PARIS, JULY 15.—I drove out this morning for a farewell look at that ancient grey and depressing pile that is the prison of Saint-Lazare, shortly to come down. I once went through it and it became the theme of a recurrent dream from which I always awoke sitting up straight in bed with the horror.

The wilderness of echoing corridors and tunnels of haunting silences have played a conspicuous part in the history of Paris. From the inside courtyard creaking tumbrels departed with the doomed for the guillotine during the Revolution. Mrs. Caillaux and other celebrated prisoners awaited trials there.

Outside of its sad, dry odor and little, the most pronounced impression is of its gloomy, swollen and beady-eyed rats. They scamper about freely and are so numerous the cats no longer bother them. Cogs in the kitchen, as a mere gesture, kill on an average of 100 a day.

The rats, and I know a person who suggests one of them, are the most playful around dusk in the evening. So much so that new prisoners suffer from a malady known as "mal de six heures" from which many women are reported to have gone stark mad. The prison dates from the beginning of the 12th century, and was once a hospital for lepers. It is now occupied only by women.

It is ruled entirely by nuns, and there are no privileges. At every bunk side there is a peep hole, and unfortunate live a life of catatonia. The only light permitted is from the flare of candles. One section is given over to girls under age who are under correction. Some sixteen look 40 after a year.

At that memorable July 13, 1870, when the French and Paris ran red, the mob broke into St. Lazare and looted the large stock of food which the Lazarists had stored away. The monks were driven out and the building taken over. Always it has been an eyecore, and its demolition will not be mourned.

A delightful quality of the French is their unabashed frankness. When a Frenchman dines with his wife or sweetheart he shows her the check and often they look it together. I have often wondered in America why the waiter slips the check to the man so secretly.

At Tour d'Argent, where pressed duok with a heavenly concoction of raw blood has been the place of resistance since 1802, I was interested in watching an alibi French dinner party at a dining table. There were 14, ranging from a white-bearded doddling papa in full evening dress to a boy in dinner suit. No cocktails were served, but from the start there was the chirping of the aviary. Only a small amount of diluted table wine was served, and no cordials. It was noticeable, too, none of the ladies smoked.

Tip to gourmet: Try a dinner at Puccini's, across from the Opera Comique, and save a little room for a plate of their caquel, Sicilienne, a variant of the apuino in Italian cafes in New York. It is a little, a tear down the sturdiest cheek.

This afternoon's pleasant night might be entitled "Fun in a Pedicure Chair." While one Chinese waited at an annoying callous, another gave a manicure and still another a face massage. I had a notion to let another launder my shirt during the gaitly if they happen to go in for that sort of thing. Some repairs were being made in the adjoining booth by a Chinese carpenter, and he was a reigning champion of the Paris music hall in France while he hampered away.

Paris is at its topmost best at 9:30, when the dreary three-hour twilight steals over the acres of chimney pots and the corrugated shop shutters are dropped. It is when the Paris workers pop out on the sidewalks and go laughing and chattering home to dinner. Everybody is in the best of spirits, buoyancy and skips along I would say. I am a happy fellow myself if it had not been for my recent bridge work.

An American beggar, and the one I have seen in Paris, flung out to a group of us in front of a cafe. His frankness won him a shower of francs.

He said, "I was nearly scared to death during the war."
